PITTSBURGH BUSINESS TIMES HONORS CANDICE KOMAR WITH WOMEN IN BUSINESS AWARD

PITTSBURGH (January 23, 2012) — Candice L. Komar, founding partner of Pittsburgh-based family law firm Pollock Begg Komar Glasser & Vertz LLC, has been named a recipient of the Pittsburgh Business Times 2012 Women in Business Awards. She is one of 25 women in the region being honored for her business accomplishments and community leadership.

Each year, the Women in Business Awards recognize the exceptional accomplishments of a diverse array of women leaders in some of Pittsburgh's biggest industries, including education, energy, real estate, manufacturing, law, banking and health care. The awards are open to women in all business and nonprofit sectors, and an independent panel of judges reviews nominees.

"I am so proud to be included among the other women honorees that I admire so much, and this honor is even more meaningful since I was nominated by one of my own associates," Komar said. "It does not get any better than that."

As one of four founding partners of the firm, Komar was instrumental in Pollock Begg's early growth. Starting with only two associates, the firm now boasts 15 attorneys and stands as the largest boutique family law firm in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Recognized often for her professional accomplishments and extraordinary leadership, Komar has been listed in the Best Lawyers in America annual edition since 2008, Pennsylvania Super Lawyers since 2005, and the Top 50 Women Lawyers in Pennsylvania since 2009. In July 2011, Komar also recently became a fellow in the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers following a rigorous admissions process.

“Not only is Candice an excellent lawyer and businesswoman, she is a great role model for any young professional, in the legal field or elsewhere,” said Pollock Begg Associate Attorney Dana Levine, who nominated Komar for the distinction. “From my first day at the office, I have admired her skills and her dedication to her practice and community.”
