

Benjamin M. Lehman

Associate

“Divorce and custody disputes are stressful. Add litigation to the mix and it can become very overwhelming. It takes compassion along with knowledge of the law and meticulous attention to detail to provide clients with effective representation and assure them they will make it through.”

Combining empathy and a pragmatic approach to break down the legal process, Benjamin M. Lehman strikes the right balance, delivering representation to meet client needs while reducing stress levels.

Easing the Tension

Understanding the emotional and financial stressors at play in divorce and custody situations, Ben always strives to meet clients where they are, listen and help them determine their goals and next steps.

Enhancing the Legal Community

Promoting and contributing to the legal community have been focuses for Ben since he was a law student, serving as president of the Family Law Society and participating in the Family Law Clinic at Duquesne University School of Law. Ben has authored numerous articles on various family law topics for Pennsylvania Family Lawyer magazine and is currently a member of the Allegheny County Bar Association, participating in its Young Lawyers Division.

Memberships and Accomplishments

- Recipient, Eric D. Turner Award given by the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers
- Recipient, CALI Excellence for the Future Award, Criminal Law
- Member, Allegheny County Bar Association
- Member, ACBA Young Lawyers Division
- Past President, Family Law Society, Duquesne University School of Law