

Gina M. McKlveen
Associate

"I am a creative problem solver. I get to the heart of legal issues quickly and advocate for my clients with a full understanding of what matters most to them and how to accomplish their goals effectively."

Pittsburgh family law attorney Gina M. McKlveen tackles tough issues thoughtfully and strategically, using her criminal and civil litigation experience to reach creative solutions.

Creative Advocacy

With a diverse legal background, Associate Gina M. McKlveen assists clients crafting creative solutions for a wide variety of family law issues.

Gina's experience as a former assistant district attorney, coupled with her prior work in civil litigation, equips her to fiercely advocate for her clients' rights. As a staff attorney with HopeWorks — a nonprofit supporting survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault — Gina deepened her commitment to guiding clients through challenging circumstances with empathy and trauma-informed advocacy.

Holistic Approach

With a well-rounded legal background, Gina takes a holistic approach to each case, helping clients fully understand their options and empowering them throughout the legal process. She brings exceptional writing, research, and storytelling skills to her practice, allowing her to present persuasive, well-reasoned arguments in court.
